1. Introduction

VIT-AP University was established in 2017-18 to create excellent engineers of high caliber and good ambiance for carrying out fundamental and applied research. Keeping these objectives in mind, VIT-AP University has designed a novel choice-based curriculum with additional flexibility to pursue innovative ideas. VIT-AP University offers outstanding education that promotes students' holistic development through various Undergraduate, Postgraduate, and Ph.D. programmes. The curriculum focuses on both fundamentals, recent advances in Engineering Technology, Sciences, and applications based on the current needs of the industry.

In addition to these academic programmes offered at VIT-AP University, the University encourages faculty and students to undertake academic and sponsored research. One of the major drives of the University is to harness the full potential of undergraduate and postgraduate students in research and consultancy, for which a good support system in the form of need grants is in place. By this, the students will develop capability in solving real-time problems faced by any industry. Active research is being carried out in different areas such as Renewable Energy Technologies, Microgrids, Smart grids, Power electronics, Converts, Modern Control Systems, VLSI Design, Robotics, and Artificial Intelligence, Material Technologies, Cyber Security, Data Analytics, Image processing, computational fluid dynamics, and signal processing applications. The University has more than adequate research infrastructures such as adequate internet bandwidth, sophisticated equipment, 24 x 7 uninterrupted power supply, and well-designed laboratories.

The University provides research fellowship to all the full-time research scholars with some contingency amount for their research needs. Furthermore, the University aims to improve the Industry-Academic interaction and inter-university partnerships through collaborative R & D projects and sponsored research projects. This will help get enough visibility to the University at the national and international levels, and ultimately it may be placed on the global research map. Furthermore, on the laboratories set up with funding from sponsored research projects, consultancy work for the industry can be carried out to generate adequate revenue for the University in the long run.
